Subject: Public Review of Draft Forest Plan and Draft Environmental Impact Statement for Custer Gallatin Forest Plan Revision

Dear Interested Parties:

The Custer Gallatin National Forest is releasing the draft revised forest plan and draft environmental impact statement for public review. Public comment is open for 90-days from the notice of availability in the Federal Register.

A forest plan is the comprehensive overarching document that guides forest management, use, and protection for years to come.

Four alternatives are proposed as well as the “no-action” alternative (which is based on the current Custer and Gallatin Forest Plans). The draft environmental impact statement weighs the benefits and potential tradeoffs of each alternative and its effect on resources over the life of the forest plan.

Key revisions to the draft land management plan include:

- Direction to guide sustainable forest products, mining, grazing, and recreation.
- Direction to guide vegetation management, reflecting current science to support plant and wildlife persistence.
- Direction that integrates the National Cohesive Wildland Fire Management Strategy and supports active fuels reduction (removal of brush and small trees) near communities and homes.
- Direction for wildlife and aquatic species including lynx, grizzly bear, and bison and other wildlife species that allows for improved and more efficient habitat management while addressing the need to actively manage the vegetation within their respective habitats.
- Direction to promote further connectivity of animal species across the landscape.
- Direction for a range of land allocations including recommended wilderness areas, eligible wild and scenic rivers, backcountry areas and recreation emphasis areas.
- Direction promoting partnerships to get more work accomplished on the ground.
